Chapter 1

Introduction

The history of Press Information Bureau can be traced back to the first World War Years, when a Central Publicity Board came into existence under the Home Member of the colonial Government. Later a Cell was set up in the Home Department in June 1919 under Dr. L. F. Rushbrook Williams, to prepare every year a report on India, for presentation to British Parliament. In the following year, the functions of the Cell were amplified to provide and supervise "the distribution of correct information on all India questions" and to inform Departments of Government of "particular questions on which public opinion is exercised and on which further information is needed". Towards the end of 1920, the Cell was rechristened as 'Central Bureau of Information' and Dr. L.F.Rushbrook Williams became its Director. The designation of the Head of the Bureau was changed from Director to Principal Information Officer in 1938. Shri J.Natarajan became the first Indian in 1941 to be appointed as Principal Information Officer and the Organization's name was changed to Press Information Bureau in 1946. The bureau's functions as visualized by Dr.Williams were as follows:

- (ii) To provide an "agency" news service, reporting facts without comment.
- (iii) To exclude any material of a communal nature; and
- (iv) Rigorous exclusion of political or controversial nature, except when attributable to a definite source.

Upon attainment of Independence, the scope of the Bureau underwent further changes. The Bureau was not only to give factual information on the programmes, policies and activities of the Government but was also entrusted with additional and more delicate task of interpreting those facts and Government policies.
